ALPHA

1963

Published at State College, Bridgewater, Massachusetts

Dedication

"You work that you may keep pace with the earth and the soul of the earth; for all knowledge is vain save where there is work, and all work is empty save where there is love."

It is with gratitude and affection that the Class of 1963 dedicates the Alpha to Mr. Paul Huffington, Chairman of the Earth Science Department. His numerous years of service and devotion have been felt not only by the department and the college, but by each student who has come under his influence. As a member of the science building committee, Mr. Huffington represents that spirit of progress which will continue to give Bridgewater an exemplary place in the academic world. Following Mr. Huffington's example, may we embrace with joy the profession of teaching.

Foreword

On Teaching

Then said a teacher, Speak to us of Teaching.
And he said:

No man can reveal to you aught but that which already lies half asleep in the dawning of your knowledge.

The teacher who walks in the shadow of the temple, among his followers, gives not of his wisdom but rather of his faith and his lovingness.

If he is indeed wise he does not bid you enter the house of his wisdom, but rather leads you to the threshold of your own mind.

The astronomer may speak to you of his understanding of space, but he cannot give you his understanding.

The musician may sing to you of the rhythm which is in all space, but he cannot give you the ear which arrests the rhythm nor the voice that echoes it.

And he who is versed in the science of numbers can tell of the regions of weight and measure, but he cannot conduct you thither.

For the vision of one man lends not wings to another man.

And even as each one of you stands alone in God's knowledge, so must each one of you be alone in his knowledge of God and his understanding of the earth.

ADMINISTRATION

President Adrian Rondileau

Not too long ago a student expressed regret to me that "his parents had made him go to college." He would have preferred to go in the military service first and then make up his mind as to whether or not he wanted to go to college. He felt that they had, in effect, robbed him of the opportunity to make up his own mind and thus be enthusiastic about his college work which he was passing, but not tackling with the enthusiasm and larger success of which he felt capable.

All of us can see, in this situation, which is repeated countless thousands of times on every college campus in the country, certain familiar elements. There is an age-old rebellion of the young against parental authority. There is on the other side of the coin the desire of parents to keep their sons and daughters from making serious mistakes and missing great opportunities which they feel will not return again.

The above analysis is probably true enough insofar as it goes. Perhaps there is much more to it which should be of interest to college students and especially to college seniors as they go further on to graduate work, or a position, and, in most cases, to marriage. One of my acquaintances, a very distinguished educator, summed up the deep significance of this when he made the following evaluation of his own life. He said that he had always been resentful of authority and of the demands of any particular job in life—partly perhaps because he had never gotten along very well with his father. At any rate, at the age of 45—about double that of the average college graduate—he had realized after much soul-searching that he was suffering from a common psychological attitude epitomized in the aphorism: "The grass is always greener on the other side of the fence." He said he had finally come to the conclusion that every situation had its drawbacks as well as it advantages, that people had their shortcomings in every circumstance and that he would never be happy unless he tackled his present position—whatever it was—with full enthusiasm and without any excuses.

Along these lines he would say to the student, "Don't use an excuse for muffing your opportunity, the fact that you are in college at your parents' insistence. You will always have equally valid excuses—if you are looking for them—to muff the opportunity to make the most of any job, or any other situation, in which you find yourself throughout life. I know because I did it for 45 years."

So it seems to me that this professional acquaintance of mine has given all of us the best possible counsel as we tackle the problems and the opportunities that lie before us. "Don't become victim of 'The grass is always greener on the other side of the fence' fallacy." Each of us can find numerous excuses to yield to this temptation—plenty of interesting and seemingly valid excuses. The point is that life is much more fun and much more productive either in college or graduate school or on the job, if one puts all these excuses aside and tackles the opportunities and problems with enthusiasm and determination. Either attitude tends to become a habit. The habit of enthusiasm leads to much more personal happiness and success than the habit of dragging one's feet.

Doesn't his insight have the authentic ring of the "Voice of Experience?"

Senior Message

It was the pleasure of the Class of 1963 to welcome Dr. and Mrs. Rondileau to the State College at Bridgewater. Dr. Rondileau's presidency marks a new era of academic expansion and physical growth for the college. Although we, as seniors, have witnessed only the beginnings of this advancement, we are confident that under the guidance of Dr. Rondileau and the administration Bridgewater will become firmly established in a contemporary academic world, while continuing to revere the aspirations and traditions of its past generations.

STUDENT LIFE

Seated: J. Kiernan, Vice-president; E. Meaney, President; J. Dubiel, Treasurer. Standing: A. Wessling, Secretary; E. Pearlman, Assistant Treasurer.

President greets President.

The Student Cooperative Association is the governing body for the entire college. Its council, consisting of elected student representatives from all classes, strives to develop and maintain high standards of thought and action throughout the student body. By working closely with other student government officers throughout the country, the executive council has attempted the difficult, to leave Bridgewater a better place than they found it.

The W.R.A. is one of the largest organizations on campus. All of the women of the college automatically become members after paying their S.C.A. dues.

Each quarter the W.R.A. sponsors a number of varied activities in which everyone may participate. These activities range from swimming to square dancing. The participants are divided into three leagues according to class and major; elementary, secondary, and physical education. These leagues compete, and first place receives five points; second place receives three points; and third place receives one point. The class that accumulates the largest amount of points is awarded the W.R.A. plaque at the annual spring banquet.

Candids

Isn't sociology simply fascinating?

It's the "you-know-what" acting up again

Where the boys are

Bridgewater special

No tickee—no shirtee or In by 9, out by 5

All right, who forgot the tennis ball?

Any hope, Coach?

The recipe—it's a secret!

Ha So! Velly nice auction!

Excuse me, I thought this was the balcony

Open for business

All of a sudden I feel sick

Who says we're a suitcase college?

Which institution did you say this was?

Is she or isn't she?

Food for thought

Mother said there would be days like this

Oh, my aching feet—
"lievable-umbe"

A swinging weekend at BSC

Yes, another day off

We are Siamese

Stepping out tonight?

Look Ma—no cavities

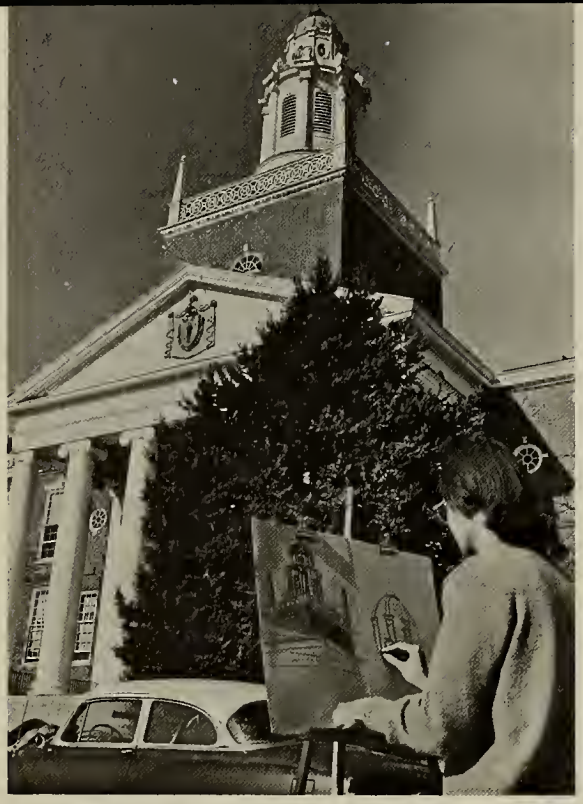

Who said this was a dry campus?

Flaming Mamie!!

Study? You're kidding, of course!

B.S.C.

I wish he would be a B.S.C. gentleman and light my cigarette

Next, the fifty mile hike

You better believe!

Would you believe it?

Gracious living

Did you say team teaching?

Are diamonds really trump?

You did well, but . . . I'll agree history is a difficult subject

Smile, Clorinda, you're on candid camera!

Twist along with Kim

Commuters' Paradise

Heads you win . . . Tails I lose
